

Spanish II Podcast Project

Students working in pairs create a 30 second podcast using the technological components specified. The podcast will be an advertisement for a product created and named by the students. The ad should contain persuasion, quality and creativity.

The product should be one that can be associated with the verbs and vocabulary of Unidad 3. Products can be related to healthy living, daily routine and personal care, beach activities, or household chores.

Students must decide to whom the ad is addressed (Ud. Uds or Tú) and be consistent in their use of the same person form. Each student must use at least two affirmative command forms and two negative command forms.

In addition to the command forms, verbs may be used in the present, past or progressive tenses. Reflexive verbs should be included.

See page 193 Act 18 for a model advertisement.

Each student must speak 50% of the time in the ad. Groups of three should produce a 45 second ad with each student speaking a third of the time.

Podcasts will be graded on the use of Spanish (use of accurate verb forms, vocabulary, and pronunciation) and on the inclusion of the specified technological components.

Students must hand in a typed script of the advertisement.

Students should not write the script in English and then attempt to translate it. The script will contain many fewer mistakes if it is written directly in the foreign language.
