Dear Parents and Guardians:

As educators, we not only wish to develop our students' intellectual abilities, but also their sense of duty to the greater community of mankind. In our mission statement, we use phrases to attest to our beliefs that students in our charge must become responsible citizens of the world. To that end, we are hosting our second Community Service Fair at North Hunterdon High School on Monday, December 1, 2008, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. This fair is a means to achieving that lofty goal. We are hopeful that our parents will encourage their children to attend.

The purpose of the Community Service Fair is to offer the middle and high school students of Hunterdon County the opportunity to meet with representatives of local and national community service organizations and to explore how they can better their own communities as well as places around the globe.

The Community Service Fair follows the same model as a college fair. Representatives from various organizations will be available at booths. Local organizations such as churches, synagogues, and local charities will participate, as will state and national organizations such as Habitat for Humanity and the American Red Cross. Students are welcome to pick up literature, ask questions, join organizations, or sign up for individual service projects. By exploring the various service opportunities, students can choose to participate in organizations that match their interests and ethical commitments.

Edmund Burke, the great 18th century writer and orator, once said, "Nobody made a greater mistake than he who did nothing because he could do only a little." We are hoping that our students learn the lasting lesson that all of us doing even a little for others can change the world. We are looking forward to seeing you at the fair.

Sincerely,

Michael P. Hughes
Principal
